Frequently misrepresented as an assertion of the autonomous power of human reason or as a uniquely Roman Catholic doctrine, natural law has actually been an integral part of orthodox Christian theology since the beginning, and is even clearly asserted in Scripture itself. In this brief guide, David Haines and Andrew Fulford explain the philosophical foundations of natural law, clear up common misunderstandings about the term, and demonstrate the robust biblical basis for natural law reasoning.

Karl Barth and Natural Theology? - bethinking.org

David VanDrunen's new monograph, A Biblical Case for Natural Law, is a must read for Christians who are perplexed about the biblical standing of natural law. It makes a biblical case for the existence and practical importance of natural law. Through his examination of the redemptive-historical context of natural law, professor VanDrunen is helping to shift debate away from the badly caricatured doctrine of sola scriptura toward a fuller understanding of the biblical theology underlying ...

A Biblical Case For Natural

Frame's answer is Nature's Case for God, a brief, beautifully written biblical argument for finding evidence of God in cosmos (the natural world) and conscience (human nature). According to Scripture, it takes two witnesses to sustain a claim, and Frame here invites us to listen again to the witness of the created order and our own selves.

A Biblical Case for Natural Law - wscal.edu

Natural law gives us a general concept of right and wrong, while the Bible fleshes out that skeletal framework, telling us what God considers moral and lawful. Leviticus 18 provides a good example. Here God tells Moses not to follow the legal structures either of Egypt, where the Israelites had been, or of Canaan, where they were going.

A Biblical case for natural law (Book, 2006) [WorldCat.org]

Natural theology, being linked with German national volk-religion, was set against the revealed religion of Christ in Scripture, and Barth's theology became all the more extreme in its defence. His biblical theology became isolated from rationality, presupposing its own truth, which needed no justification.
